THE HUBER-HOOVER FAMILY
OF AESCH, SWITZERLAND
AND TRIPPSTADT, PALATINATE.
WITH SOME ACCENT ON MIGRATIONS TO PENNSYLVANIA.

SOON after The Story of a Research upon the Origin of the Huber-Hoover Families in the Palatinate by me, had gone to Press,* Professor Herm. Friedr. Macco of Berlin-Steglitz, discovered that the Huber family, which appears at the end of the 17th century in Trippstadt in the Palatinate, and to which the records published by Mrs. Eula K. Woodward of Washington, D. C. and Miss E. Adele Affleck of Winchester, Virginia, in March 1927,† refer, is not that to which the former President of the United States, Herbert C. Hoover, belongs, and which had emigrated to the Palatinate from Oberkulm in the Canton of Bern. As stated in that article, the greater number of the Swiss emigrants to the Palatinate came from Bern, but there were a few emigrants from the canton of Zürich. In the meantime genealogies of two different Huber families of Swiss origin who emigrated to the Palatinate, one from Bern and one from Zürich, have been completed.

While Prof. Macco has investigated, of his own accord, the former President's ancestry in the canton of Bern as far back as the 13th century, a study which has not been published, I have taken an interest in investigating the ancestors of my great-great-great-grand-mother, Anna Maria Huber, born at Trippstadt, 1711, died at Gemünd / Eifel, 1773, who married in 1730, at Trippstadt, Johann David Staudt. With the help of Prof. Macco I have been able to trace the genealogy of this Huber family of Trippstadt to about the year 1500, in Aesch near Neftenbach, in the canton Zürich.

I am grateful to The Genealogical Society of Pennsylvania for putting at my disposal space in its Publications for the German and Swiss ancestry of several colonial emigrants, whose descendants are now spread over the United States. Hereafter only that part of the Huber genealogy in Europe will be given which can be of interest to the American branches. I am sorry to say that I have not been in personal contact with any of these descendants bearing the Huber name. All my efforts in this respect have so far been in vain. Nevertheless, I beg to express the hope that my aim to awaken in America the interest of the Hoover descendants of these Hubers may yet be realized, and that the American part of the genealogy will soon be compiled.

The Name Huber. Families bearing the name of Huber will generally be found to originate from those parts of the German speaking countries where the "Hube" or hufe, was the unit to measure farm land,—i. e. in Southern Germany and the German parts of Switzerland. In Switzerland a "hub" or huob, huebe, used to be a plot of land of about 48 acres. In the middle ages the person possessing and working a "hube" or farm was called "huber" i. e. farmer, and sometimes this characterization became the name of such farmer's family. This explains the relative frequency of the name Huber used by families with no interrelation whatsoever. While this name appears rather often in the eastern cantons, it is not indigenous to the so-called "Urschweiz" (the cantons Schwyz, Uri and Unterwalden), nor in Fribourg and Wallis. Huber families now there have emigrated from other cantons.

In the canton of Bern, especially in the Emmenthal, or Valley of the river Emme, "Hub" or Huob has gradually become a frequent name for fields and there, and in the neighboring cantons especially, the round top of a hill, or place from which a good view can be obtained, is also called a Hub. A site on the Riesberg, about one mile west from Neftenbach, is still called the Hub. Very likely the Hubers of the text obtained this family name because of their residence.

Early Swiss Emigration. For many centuries the soil of Switzerland was not fertile enough to support its increasing population. Thus many of the young males were forced to look abroad for work and food; for instance, serving as lansquenets in foreign armies. But, about the middle fifties of the 17th century, bad harvests caused such a famine in Switzerland that an emigration, the so called "reislaufen" at first but temporary, became permanent. Many of the Swiss who left their country and accepted seasonal work in the neighbouring parts of Germany along the Rhine, (Alsatia, Swabia, the margravate of Baden, Wurttemberg and the Palatinate), settled down, married, and never again returned to Switzerland.

This emigration movement could not be checked, not even by the most severe decrees, which the cantonal authorities issued one after the other, and its importance is often evidenced in contemporaneous parish reports of the canton of Zürich. There the ministers were always emphasizing the failure of crops as reason for the "reislaufen", or emigration, frequently giving quite large lists of parishioners who had moved away.

With due consideration of such reliable documents, it cannot be maintained that religious persecution, so often made responsible for this emigration, was its motivating force. Religious difficulties were, if at all, of rather minor importance, as many Protestants migrating to Catholic communities were there soon converted, just as people moving from Catholic cantons to Protestant ones easily accepted the Protestant faith. Scarcely any difference was made between Lutherans and Calvinists; thus Calvinist Hubers from Neftenbach in canton Zürich became Lutherans after their emigration to Trippstadt in the Palatinate.

Aesch, the Cradle of Hubers of the text. It is a country town 1400 feet above sea level on the south-east side of the Riesberg, where it slopes towards Wiesenbach Valley. It belongs to the parish of Neftenbach at the end of Wiesenbach Valley, protected by the Riesberg mountain and the Taggenberg and almost touching the valley of the Toess River, which, six miles further down, flows into the Rhine. For many centuries the wine produced from the yield of vineyards on the hills of Neftenbach has been considered the best of the whole district.

The Hubers in Basel. As time went on, all the Hubers moved from their ancestral homesteads at Aesch-Neftenbach; but only the genealogies of the branches at Basel, Switzerland, and Trippstadt, Palatinate, have so far been made matters of investigation. Among the thirty-two persons mentioned in Lists of Swiss Emigrants in the Eighteenth Century to The American Colonies, Between 1734-1744,* as having left Neftenbach in order to travel to Carolina and Pennsylvania, the name of Huber is recorded only once: Elizabeth Huber, from Neftenbach, who left in 1738, aged 30 years with her husband Gottfried Scherer von der hintere Hub. As several Elisabeth Hubers are recorded in Neftenbach parish register as born in 1708, it has not been possible to identify her.

In Basel, the Hubers produced several eminent business men and scientists. Among the most prominent was the astronomer, John Jacob Huber, 1733-1798, called to Berlin by King Frederic the Great and made a member of the Royal Academy of Sciences. He lived there many years as director of the Potsdam Observatory, returning to Basel with his family after the death of the King. This family has borne, since the 17th century, the following coat of arms: Or, a triple hill vert, in chief a gothic "h" sable. No member of this Huber branch of Basel is recorded as having emigrated to America. Hans Rudolf Huber, son of Dr. Joh. Werner Huber and Marg. Besk, of Basel, who is mentioned in the Faust & Brumbaugh Lists,† as having "left British military service near Halifax in 1754," apparently belongs to a different Huber family.

The Hubers in Trippstadt, Palatinate. In present times many families bearing the name Huber are living in the Palatinate; the name is especially frequent in the hilly region of the Holzwald, in the district of Kaiserslautern. Nevertheless, before the second half of the 17th century there were no Hubers in the Palatinate. The name of Huber does not appear among those persons recorded in the well-kept minutes of the Protestant Parochial Visitations of the beginning of the 17th century, although these contain exact lists of the inhabitants of the various parishes.*

According to a parish document, a "roedel" from the Latin word rotula, presented † on October 14, 1657, concerning the twenty-one persons belonging to the parish of Neftenbach, who left the country in 1656 and 1657, eleven went to the Palatinate, four left for the "Lutheran", one for the "Catholic" country, and the traces of five were lost. No names are mentioned, but one is certainly correct in assuming that several Hubers joined these emigrants, because, just ten years later, their names appear for the first time in the church register at Trippstadt. The first one entered and recorded as Swiss, is Martin Huber, born at Aesch, August 11, 1639, died at Trippstadt, between 1689 and 1692, the ancestor of the Huber family still flourishing at the latter place. Martin, the sixth of the eleven children of Hans Huber by his wife Barbara Braetscher, is mentioned in the "soul register" of Neftenbach in 1649, but not in the following one of 1670. Furthermore, there is no record whether Martin, before settling in Trippstadt, had first emigrated elsewhere.

Trippstadt is a straggling village situated in the immense leafy woods of Holzwald, six miles south of Kaiserslautern. Its Lutheran parish has existed since the days of the Reformation. On account of the various French invasions, and especially the terrible devastation of the Palatinate by Louis XIV of France in 1688, the parish registers were nearly all destroyed. Thus, the parish register of Trippstadt beginning in 1688 is the first that has been preserved to the present day. However, Engelhard Gillhausen, vicar of Wallhalben, father-in-law of the youngest son of Peter Huber (1726), miller at the Mausmühle, made inquiries in order to obtain an exact record as far back as 1665. This record contains the baptism of Martin Huber's son, Heinrich Philipp, in January 1666. Furthermore, he undertook to complete the Protestant parish register of his district. When starting, about 1710, a new parish register for the villages belonging to his parish such as Saalstadt, Landstuhl, Wallhalben etc., he tried to obtain statements from old inhabitants for the period before 1710. Therefore, it is to Engelhard Gillhausen that the Huber genealogy in the Palatinate is indebted for its earliest dates.

Contemporary with Martin Huber, were other persons in Trippstadt evidently of Swiss origin, like Buschi, Busi, Buchon, Luddig, Racket, Rochi, while others, like the families May and Stadler of Bern, are especially mentioned in the registers as having come from Switzerland.

The social development of Martin Huber's immediate family concerned not only himself, but his kin, who remained in Switzerland. While his forefathers were free peasants, he became a forester in the service of Baron von Hack, one of the innumerable independent land-noblemen of the old German empire. In later years Martin Huber is also mentioned as mayor of Trippstadt. His sons, as well as many of his descendants, held office under the Barons von Hack; among the latter, Adolf Huber is present mayor of Trippstadt.

When in the 18th century the stream of emigration from the Continent to the North American colonies increased, several Hubers were caught by its force. They all adopted the spelling Hoover, as their name was recorded phonetically by the colonial authorities. Rupp's* indications are often too laconic to provide for identification, while documents dealing with emigration to North America and other over-sea countries are rare in Germany.

Nevertheless, as relates to Huber-Hoovers, absolute identification of several of the arrivals in Philadelphia with those who are either registered in the Palatinate as having left for Pennsylvania, or, who completely disappeared from the Church registers, is beyond question. The documents, passports and manumissions by Freiherr von Hack's Court, published by The National Genealogical Society* clearly show that "Henrich, Johann Nicol, Johann Adam, Johann Philipp and Maria Elizabetha, five children of Johann Konrath Huber, made suitable request for the purchase of freedom from bondage", and "obtained release upon payment of the usual price", in Trippstadt, on May 12, 1767. A passport was . . . granted to them on that date "to journey from there to Holland and further to Pennsylvania". On October 5 of the same year, 1767, on the ship Sally, from Rotterdam, John Osman, Master, 116 passengers arrive at Philadelphia, amongst whom "Nickel Huber, Adam Huber and Phillipp Huber" are registered.† Female passengers were never registered, thus no Maria Elizabeth is listed.

Henrich Huber, the eldest brother is also not registered. At an earlier date he had come to Pennsylvania; a discharging certificate to the same Henry Huber states: that he had served in His Majesty's 48th Regiment of Foot three years and eight months, that he was discharged at Fairfield, Connecticut, the 25th day of November, 1758, and that he was twenty-five years of age (he was born December 5, 1732). Therefore, his arrival at Philadelphia, in 1767, was in the nature of a return from his native country to the land of his adoption. Documentary evidence of November 8, 1766, shows that a passport was issued for him by the mayor of Rotterdam for a journey from there to the Palatinate. This voyage to Europe and to the Palatinate had doubtless been caused by the news of the death of his father, Johann Konrath Huber, April 10, 1766, and by the need of his assistance at the distribution of the father's estate. Another passport, issued in Trippstadt on January 29, 1767, states, that "Henry Huber from Pennsylvania had undertaken to travel to his native country to visit his friends and that, after a prolonged sojourn he wished to make a business tour to Baaden-Durlach and other places". Probably only a visit to Gräfenstein and Rothalben was meant, a little county belonging to the Markgraf of Baden and bordering to the south of his native county.

† Pennsylvania German Pioneers. A Publication of the Original Lists of Arrivals In the Port of Philadelphia From 1727 to 1808. By Ralph Beaver Strassburger, LL.D. Edited by William John Heinke, LL.D., D.D. In three volumes. Norristown, Pennsylvania, 1934. Volume I, p. 714.

Henry Huber must have remained longer in the Palatinate than he at first intended, always in engaged in settling his father's estate. But finally all these proceedings were finished and when the "Loos-Zettel" (document of inheritance) had been made out by Baron von Hack's Office, on May 12, 1767, every one of the ten children (six from the first marriage and four from the second) and the widow inherited from the estate, which had been estimated as worth: fl. 2522, less liabilities of fl. 341—net fl. 2181, the sum of fl. 195.

Under the same date a passport was granted to the four brothers and the sister who wished to emigrate to Pennsylvania and they immediately set out on their journey. Johann Jacob Kinn, who was to travel together and on the same passport with the Hubers, is also unmentioned in the Sally's passenger list. It may therefore be presumed that he, like Henrich Huber, was not arriving for the first time, or that he had either changed his mind and remained in Europe, or perished on the journey, as was then so frequently the fate of the emigrant.

Henrich Huber may well be identified with Johann Heinrich Huber, a passenger on the ship Isaac, who together with 206 others, entered the Port of Philadelphia, September 27, 1749;* all designated as protestants from the Palatinate with the exception of five Roman Catholics and one Mennonite.

Three other Huber arrivals can easily be identified as coming from Trippstadt. Two brothers: Johann Adam, born April 14, 1729, arrived August 13, 1750, on the Edinburgh, whilst his younger brother Johann, born April 22, 1731, came four years later on the same ship, September 30, 1754. Their father, Johann Jacob Huber, born July 19, 1699, is likely to be the one who arrived August 21, 1750, on the ship Andersen.†

It has not yet been possible to prove the genealogical connection between the Huber Family of Trippstadt and Johannes Huber, who is mentioned in 1720-1722 as a miller on the Mausmühle near Thaleischweiler, ten miles east of Zweibrücken. He died as miller on the Weissmühle, near Wallhalben, September 1, 1728, aged 74 years and three weeks, hence born about August 11, 1654. He is recorded as an emigrant from Switzerland, and was probably a close relative, perhaps cousin of Martin Huber. The genealogy of this branch follows hereafter, as three grandsons of his, George, Daniel and Johann Huber, came on the sailing vessel Friendship* and subscribed to the usual oaths in Philadelphia, October 12, 1741. Further descendants in Germany are so far unknown.

With these three Huber brothers, several others of the parish of Thaleischweiler are mentioned as having emigrated to Pennsylvania on the same sailing vessel:

David Dreher, who in one list is named David Dicker (?), 29 years of age, the son of the shoemaker Bernhard Dreher, whose death certificate of 1738 bears his signature. Valentin Hochwarter, whose name in one list was changed into Hohwerder and in another one into Huberter, was married at Thaleischweiler in 1735 and reported in the register as "having gone to Pennsylvania". Jacob Diehl was a son of the assistant judge Peter Diehl of Thaleischweiler. The passenger list Peter Baul, is Peter Bohl, son of Johann Peter Bohl, mentioned in 1732 at Herschberg, near Wallhalben. Jacob Domdeur of Eischweiler, had his name changed on the list into Jacob Dundier.† The foregoing are but a few characteristic names. From other notes in the parish registers of Eischweiler it can be seen that a large number of persons from that parish emigrated to Pennsylvania: Joh. Adam Fischer, born 1720; Anna Maria Allenbach born 1726, emigrated in 1752; Joh. Heinrich Bruder, born 1730, emigrated in 1749; Joh. Martin Zaun, married in 1736; Reinhard Alspach, married in 1737; Heinrich Kiefer, married in 1737, etc. In each case the fact of the emigration is stated by special entry.‡

If the entries of baptisms supplemented by such a "nota" were compared with the lists of passengers who took the Oath of Allegiance, the number of emigrants from the parish of Thaleischweiler would be considerable.

HANS ? HUBER, born circa 1480-1490, ancestor of this Huber family, lived in Aesch,* near Neftenbach, situated in the former County of Kyburg, which now belongs to the canton of Zurich, Switzerland. His christian name cannot be definitely determined; but, as, for several generations, the eldest son in the family was always christened Hans, it is quite probable that this was also his name.

He married circa 1518, and had issue, order uncertain:

- i. HANS,<sup>2</sup> born circa 1520. His descendants for five generations remained at Aesch. By about 1700, they had died out, or emigrated.
2. ii. MARTIN.
- iii. MARGARETHE, born circa 1525; mentioned as married.
- iv. MAGDALENA, born circa 1530; no further record.

2. MARTIN<sup>2</sup> HUBER (Hans?), born circa 1522; died after 1575; resided at Aesch. He married (1), circa 1548, Anna Schmidlin, who is mentioned 1553-1557. He married (2), at Neftenbach, 1 mo. 29, 1559, Agathe Wipf from Seuzach, three miles north-east of Neftenbach; and (3) at Neftenbach 11 mo. 16, 1569, Catharine Schaub.

Children, born in Aesch; baptized in Neftenbach.

- i. HANS,<sup>3</sup> born circa 1550; married Veronica Waser; had four daughters and eight sons, of whom only Martin Huber is recorded as married. The latter was the father of seven children whose descendants are unknown.
- ii. CHRISTIAN, bapt. 1 mo. 10, 1553; no further record.
- iii. CATHARINA, bapt. 10 mo. 21, 1554; probably died young.
- iv. BARBARA, bapt. 12 mo. 8, 1555; married 1 mo. 25, 1575, Martin Fritschi.
- v. VERONIKA (Verena), bapt. 9 mo. 5, 1557; died in infancy.
- vi. FRONEGG, bapt. 6 mo. 1560.†
- vii. MAGDALENA, bapt. 11 mo. 12, 1561.†
- viii. CATHARINE, bapt. 7 mo. 2, 1564; died in infancy.
- ix. CATHARINE, bapt. 8 mo. 5, 1565.†
- x. HEINRICH, bapt. 10 mo. 19, 1567.†
- xi. VERONIKA (Verena), bapt. 8 mo. 20, 1570; married 2 mo. 23, 1589, Christopher Waser.
3. xii. MARTIN, bapt. 3 mo. 2, 1572.
- xiii. ANNA, bapt. 2 mo. 20, 1575; married 7 mo. 17, 1599, Hans Waser of Hünikon.

3. MARTIN<sup>3</sup> HUBER (Martin,<sup>2</sup> Hans?<sup>1</sup>), baptized at Neftenbach, 3 mo. 2, 1572; died in 1634; resided in Aesch. He married at Neftenbach, 1 mo. 30, 1592, Catharine Erb, from Oberwinterthur near Winterthur.

* The little village of Aesch belongs to the parish of Neftenbach, and is situated three and half miles north of Winterthur, and eleven south of Schaffhausen. In former times Aesch was frequently spelled Aisch.

† No further record.

Children, born in Aesch, baptized in Neftenbach:

- i. JACOB,<sup>4</sup> bapt. 1 mo. 30, 1593.*
- ii. MARTIN, bapt. 4 mo. 13, 1594; was a taylor by trade; went to Basle, where he was admitted to citizenship June 20, 1621. Descendants of his branch are still resident in Basle.
4. iii. HANS, bapt. 9 mo. 21, 1595.
- iv. GEORG (Jörg) bapt. 8 mo. 28, 1597; died at Aesch, 3 mo. 23, 1663. Like his brother, Martin, he was taylor. From three marriages, eight children are recorded in the church books of Neftenbach. His male descendants, all taylors by trade, are, for three generations to be found in Neftenbach, after which there is no further record of this branch. As one of Georg Huber's daughters, Anna Huber, born 1638, is recorded as having removed to the Palatinate, it is not unlikely that a Johannes Huber, who appears in the Palatinate is also his son. According to the death record of the latter he was born in Switzerland, in August, 1654. Four of his children went to America.*
- v. MORTIZ (Mauritius), bapt. 2 mo. 4, 1599.†

- x. VERONIKA, bapt. 5 mo. 23, 1607; married at Neftenbach, 2 mo. 17, 1629, Heinrich Brätscher.

4. HANS <sup>4</sup> HUBER (Martin,<sup>3</sup> Martin,<sup>2</sup> Hans<sup>1</sup>?), baptized at Neftenbach, 9 mo. 21, 1595; died at Aesch, where he was a farmer, 7 mo. 19, 1653; married at Neftenbach, 4 mo. 30, 1627, Barbara Brätscher, born Aesch, 9 mo. 13, 1607; died there, 9 mo. 1, 1662; daughter of Heinrich Brätscher and Barbara Klingen of Aesch.

Children, born in Aesch, baptized in Neftenbach.

- iv. JACOB, bapt. 3 mo. 1, 1634; died Aesch, 12 mo. 27, 1715. He was a schoolmaster and inherited his father's farm, where he lived and died. He was twice married and had 5 children; two boys were married; but their descendants are unknown.

- viii. BARBARA, bapt. 3 mo. 5, 1643; mentioned in the Visitation Register of 1649, but no further record.

* As to three of his sons on the Friendship, cf. page 231.

† No further record.

- ix. JOHANNES, known as Hans, bapt. 7 mo. 26, 1646; died Aesch, 2 mo. 21, 1714; was twice married and had five children, all by first wife, of whom all seem to have died in their nonage.
- x. SUSANNA, bapt. 3 mo. 4, 1649; died in infancy.
- xi. ABRAHAM, bapt. 2 mo. 10, 1652; died in infancy.

In the Visitation Register of 1649 Martin Huber is mentioned as living with his parents at Aesch. Owing to bad harvests in the years 1656-60, and the thereby resulting lack of employment in Switzerland, he emigrated, as did so many of his countrymen, to the Palatinate. According to a report by the Reformed Minister of Neftenbach, dated 14th of October, 1657, which unfortunately gives no names, twenty-one persons removed from that parish during the years 1656/57; eleven of whom went to the Palatinate.

From about 1665, Martin Huber is recorded in Trippstadt, formerly belonging to the territory of the Count of Flörsheim. In 1669 he was manorial forester and in 1683, he is mentioned as Schultheiss, village mayor, of Trippstadt. The Lutheran Church Registers of Trippstadt begin in the year 1688, but in 1725 supplements were compiled for the period 1665-98.

Children, born and baptized in Trippstadt:

- i. HEINRICH PHILIPP,<sup>6</sup> bapt. 1 mo. 14, 1666.*
- ii. JOHANN NIKOLAUS, bapt. 3 mo. 10, 1667; married Anna Katharina . . . by whom he had six children. Later on he is mentioned as juror in Trippstadt. None of his descendants are recorded as emigrants to America, and after three generations his branch became extinct.
- iii. ANNA CHRISTINA, bapt. 12 mo. 27, 1668.*
- 6. iv. HANS BARTHOLOMAUS, born circa 1670.
- v. ANNA MARIA KATHARINA, born circa 1671, married 1696 Nicolaus Wagner.
- vi. ANNA BARBARA, born circa 1672; buried before 1 mo. 25, 1711; married in 1694, Joh. Jacob Schaaf.
- 7. vii. JOHANN PHILIPP, born circa 1675.

He married at the latter place, 7 mo. 20, 1734, Maria Elizabeth Buschi, born at Trippstadt, 2 mo. 3, 1715; died at Mölschbach 5 mo. 2, 1789; daughter of Johannes Buschi, who died before 1734, and Maria Susana Eberle.

  - iii. JOHANN GEORG, born 12 mo. 23, 1740. No further record in the Palatinate. Thus he probably emigrated to America and is to be identified with Joh. Georg Huber, who sailed from Rotterdam to Philadelphia on the Betsey and took the Oath of Allegiance on the (16?) 26th October, 1768.

Children, born and baptized at Trippstadt:

- i. JOHANN HEINRICH,<sup>s</sup> born 12 mo. 5, 1732. He is not further recorded in the parish register of Trippstadt and may well be identified as the Johann Heinrich Huber, who arrived at the port of Philadelphia, on the ship, Isaac from Rotterdam, and took the Oath of Allegiance, 27 September, 1749.* In any case he is the same for whom "the manumission from bondage and passports" were extended by Baron von Hack's Court at Trippstadt, in 1767.† These documents all evidence that Johann Hienrich Huber had been living in Pennsylvania at the time of his father's death in 1766, and that, receiving news thereof, he returned to his home in the Palatinate. After a brief stay there he again journeyed to Pennsylvania, this time on the ship Sally, accompanied by his three younger brothers and one sister: Johann Nikolaus, Johann Adam, Johann Philipp and Maria Elizabeth. The three brothers are shown to have taken the Oath of Allegiance in Philadelphia, after the arrival of the Sally from Rotterdam, October 5, 1767. As elsewhere stated, Johann Jacob Kinn, mentioned in the Huber passport, does not appear as having arrived in America.
- ii. JOHANN NIKOLAUS, born 12 mo. 17, 1734; emigrated to Pennsylvania. His descendants are still undetermined.
- iii. ANNA MARIA, born 11 mo. 22, 1736; died in infancy.
- iv. MARIA KATHARINE, born 10 mo. 27, 1737; died at Mölschbach, 4 mo. 30, 1788; married at Mölschbach, 2 mo. 8, 1763, Johann Philipp May, churchwarden in Mölschbach, born there 11 mo. 24, 1736, son of Johann Heinrich May, who died at Willstein, near Trippstadt, 1 mo. 20, 1780, in his seventy-sixth year and Anna Katharina Huber, bapt. Trippstadt, 5 mo. 6, 1714, daughter of Johann Philipp Huber.‡ Johann Philipp May married (2) at Mölschbach, 11 mo. 27, 1788, Charlotte Luise Huber, born Willstein, 11 mo. 30, 1769; baptized at Trippstadt; daughter of Johann Jacob Huber, weaver-master on the Willsteiner Hoff, near Trippstadt.
- v. JOHANN PHILIPP, born 5 mo. 29, 1740; emigrated to Pennsylvania. His descendants not yet ascertained.
- vi. MARIA ELISABETH, born Mölschbach 1 mo. 20, 1743; emigrated to America.
- vii. JOHANN ADAM, born 7 mo. 8, 1745; emigrated to America. His descendants still untraced.
- viii. ANNA MARIA, born 4 mo. 30, 1750; died in infancy.
- ix. JOHANN MICHAEL, born 11 mo. 24, 1752; died Trippstadt, 10 mo. 8, 1832; married (1) at Trippstadt, 11 mo. 26, 1776, Eva Elisabeth Kallenbach, born Trippstadt, 8 mo. 15, 1753; died

---

* It is doubtful whether the Isaac's passenger can be identified with the Heinrich Huber who died in Winchester, Virginia, 28 August, 1828, aged 89 years, 8 months and 7 days, hence December 21, 1738, should be his birthday. The six years difference in age makes this combination the less likely. This Henry Huber, or Hoover, married Charity Barrick, born 1740, and had: i. John Huber, born January 6, 1764. ii. Juliann Catherin Huber, born March 1, 1766. iii. Philipp Huber, born June 21, 1770.
